PROFILE

I am an enthusiastic and ambitious young professional, seeking career opportunities to expand my knowledge in the business world.

I would describe myself as a self-starter, ambitious individual. I am able to lead by example and communicate efficiently and effectively.

I thrive in both individual and team settings. Being adaptable and eager to learn is one of my greatest qualities.

I believe sales is a role that continuously allows you to connect with others. I am passionate about building and maintaining relationships with others, both personally and professionally. I enjoy how a sales role puts others first by understanding their needs and being an active listener.

In addition, I love how omni-channel marketing allows you to continuously communicate with consumers. I love how the approach creates a unified message, voice and brand for a company. Being able to create multiple touch points and enhance consumers' experiences is a creative and rewarding role.

When I am not on the job, I love staying active and exploring new places; Whether it is hiking, biking or running, count me in! I also have a hidden talent for making breakfast foods.
